INVESTMENT OBJECTIVES
Important note Pursuant to legislation in force in the Republic of Armenia, your broker company is required to ask you to list your investment objective for your account. Set forth are descriptions and examples of typical investments for the basic investment objectives. Please rank your investment objectives for this account in order of importance (From 1 to 5, Highest importance = 1). If at any time you would like to revise your investment objective please notify your broker. The account holder assumes the full responsibility to ensure that the most appropriate description of the investment objectives for the account is provided.
<input type="checkbox"/> Preservation of Capital An Investment objective of Preservation of Capital indicates you seek to maintain the principal value of your investment and are interested in investments that have historically demonstrated a very low degree of risk of loss of principal values. Some examples of typical investments might include money market funds and high quality, short-term fixed income products. <input type="checkbox"/> Income An investment objective of Income indicates you seek to generate income from investments and are interested in investments that have historically demonstrated a low degree of risk of loss of principal value. Some examples of typical investments might include high quality, short- and medium-term fixed income products, short-term bond funds, and covered call options. <input type="checkbox"/> Capital Appreciation An investment objective of Capital Appreciation indicates you seek to grow the principal value of your investments over time and are willing to invest in securities that have historically demonstrated a moderate to above average degree of risk of loss of principal value to pursue this objective. Some examples of typical investments might include common stocks, lower quality, medium-term fixed income products, equity mutual funds, and index funds. <input type="checkbox"/> Trading Profits An investment objective of Trading Profits indicates you seek to take advantage of short-term trading opportunities, which may involve establishing and liquidating positions quickly. Some examples of typical investments might include short-term purchases and sales of volatile or low priced common stocks, put or call options, spreads, straddles and/or combinations on equities or indexes. This is a high-risk strategy. <input type="checkbox"/> Speculation An investment objective of Speculation indicates you seek a significant increase in the principal value of your investments and are willing to accept a corresponding greater degree of risk by investing in securities that have historically demonstrated a high degree of risk of loss to pursue this objective. Some examples of typical investments might include lower quality, long-term fixed income products, initial public offerings, volatile or low priced common stocks, the purchase or sale of put or call options, spreads, straddles and/or combinations on equities or indexes, and the use of short-term or day trading strategies. <input type="checkbox"/> Other (please specify) _____
